#HelloPhilly.

Guess who's back?

Made in America II, the sequel to last year's two-day festival down the Benjamin Franklin Parkway, will return for its second rendition this Labor Day weekend.

Three stages will host more than 30 acts, curated by Jay Z, which include his wife Beyonce and Nine Inch Nails. Doors will open both days at noon and performances will start at 2 p.m. For the estimated 120,000 ticket-holders — 60,000 each day — here's the deal:

If you're taking public transportation

SEPTA

In addition to extra trains along the Broad Street and Market-Frankford lines, SEPTA will run extra trolleys along the 11, 13, 34 and 36 routes both days of the concert, and the Center City trolley, which normally closes Sunday evenings, will remain open Sept. 1. Also, SEPTA has announced the route 10 trolley, which has been using shuttle buses during a track replacement project, will resume service Sept. 1.

SEPTA bus routes 7, 32, 33, 38, 43 and 48 will be detoured around the Parkway area from 5 a.m. Friday through noon Monday, due to road closures in connection with the festival.

Additional service will also be added to SEPTA's regional rail lines.

Paid parking lots and garages are also available around the concert area.

Entrances

- Main: 22nd Steet and Parkway
- Additional: 23rd Street and Pennsylvania Avenue and Martin Luther King Drive at Eakins Oval

What to bring/what not to bring

You'll be searched and patted-down before you enter, and you could be searched inside the event as well. And re-entry is not permitted.

CAN bring

- You are allowed to bring one bag or backpack and one sealed, plastic water bottle. Also: towels, sunscreen, blankets, umbrellas, empty plastic bottles, hydration packs.

CANNOT bring

- Do not bring weapons, fireworks/explosives, chairs, glass containers, glow sticks, laser pointers, coolers, skateboards/scooters, professional cameras, outside food or drink (besides "factory-sealed" water bottles), illegal or illicit substances or pets (except trained service animals).

Kids steal soda, cookies in Rite Aid burglary

Police on Wednesday, Aug. 28, released shocking surveillance video showing three young children burglarizing a Logan Rite Aid on Aug. 26.

Investigators said the three unknown juveniles were caught on camera shortly before 11:45 p.m. forcing open a rear bay door to the drugstore.

Once inside, they allegedly stole $30 worth of soda and cookies.

Police believe two of the suspects could be as young as 12 years old, while the third suspect is believed to be between 14 and 16 years old. METRO

Brutal. Police: Teen shot friend 10 times over $60 PlayStation

Malik Anderson / PPD

Police on Wednesday, Aug. 28, made an arrest in the brutal Aug. 19 murder of Daquan Crump, 19, whose body was found at a remote construction site at 10175 Northeast Ave. in Bustleton.

Crump was allegedly murdered by longtime friend Malik Anderson, 18, over a botched deal to steal and sell a PlayStation 3 video game system.

"An investigation revealed Daquan and Malik, who were childhood friends, had conspired to steal another childhood friend's PlayStation console," Capt. James Clark of the Homicide Unit said. "Allegedly, Daquan carried out this plan alone without Malik."

Clark said Crump sold the video game console on the street for $60, cutting Anderson out of the deal. The two teens were allegedly hanging out in a home with several other friends the night of the murder. "The decedent and the shooter were then going somewhere else, but they chose to walk through this abandoned lot," Clark said.

Anderson allegedly let Crump walk several steps in front of him, then shot him once in the back of the head. "The decedent went down, then [Anderson] stood over his longtime friend and fired nine more times, shooting him in his head and killing him," Clark said.

Anderson was arrested around 5 a.m. at his home on the 1800 block of Tomlinson Road. He was to be charged with murder and related offenses.

Police said a .22-caliber handgun was recovered from a refrigerator inside the house and determined to be the murder weapon. ALEX WIGGLESWORTH

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING AND PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD PHILADELPHIA HOUSING AUTHORITY

The Philadelphia Housing Authority (PHA) is a participant in the Moving to Work Demonstration Program (MTW). PHA was initially selected to participate in the MTW Program in 2001. In October 2008, PHA entered into an Amended and Restated Moving to Work Agreement ("MTW Agreement") with the US Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD"), which has subsequently been further amended.

The MTW Agreement defines the terms and conditions under which PHA is a participant in the MTW Program. The MTW Agreement requires that PHA submit an MTW Annual Plan for HUD review and approval. PHA's current MTW Annual Plan for MTW Year Thirteen (PHA Fiscal Year 2014) was approved by HUD on May 30, 2013.

PHA is seeking public review and comments on two proposed actions relative to the MTW Program:

- Amendment to the MTW Agreement – The proposed amendment to the MTW Agreement will provide PHA with additional flexibility in utilizing Replacement Housing Factor funds received by PHA from HUD.
- Amendment to the MTW Year Thirteen Annual Plan – The proposed amendment to the MTW Annual Plan will: 1) Establish that PHA may apply to convert one or more public housing sites under the Rental Assistance Demonstration Program and that PHA may utilize MTW Block Grant funds to support the conversion; and, 2) Allow PHA to establish a flexible subsidy program for newly developed or acquiredpublic housing units, subject to HUD review and approval of each transaction.

Additional information regarding the proposed amendments is available from PHA. Copies are available for public review on PHA's website at: www.pha.phila.gov under the "Latest News" section or may be picked up at the following locations:

- Housing Choice Voucher Program Office: 2850 Germantown Ave 1st & 2nd Floor
- Scattered Sites Management Offices: 3417 Spring Garden Street, 1821 Vineyard St. 3226 McMichael St., 3218 Susquehanna Avenue, 400 W. Huntingdon St.
- Public Housing Management Offices: Bartram - 5404 Gibson Drive, Wilson Park - 2500 Jackson St., Raymond Rosen – 2110 N. 23rd St., Blumberg - 2311 W. Jefferson St.

PHA residents, Housing Choice Voucher participants and the general public may attend and provide comments at the Public Hearing described below and/or submit written comments on these proposed actions any time during the comment period. The Public Hearing is scheduled for the following time and location: August 27, 2013 10 a.m. until noon, 1100 Poplar Street, Philadelphia, PA 19123, Multipurpose Room.

Only comments pertaining to the proposed actions noted above are being solicited. The comment period begins on August 6, 2013 at 12 noon and ends September 5, 2013 at 12 noon. All comments must be received by the end of the comment period. Please send your writtencomments to: Philadelphia Housing Authority, Office of Policy, Research and Enterprise Planning, Attention: MTW Comment, 1606 Swain St., Philadelphia, PA 19130.

The Public Hearing is being held in an accessible location. If you require assistance, sign language interpreter or other accommodations, please call 215-684-4000. Please use the AT&T Relay Service for TTY.

Teachers' union considers concessions

Negotiations.
Discussions are underway between the teachers' union and school district.

Representatives for the Philadelphia teachers union offered contract concessions Wednesday in its attempt to help the school district to hurdle its budget problems.

The proposal includes a hold on salary increases and changes to its members health care coverage, but no wage cuts.

"We know that at current staffing levels the school district cannot assure parents, students and employees that schools will be safe and more than just 'functional,'" said Jerry Jordan, president of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers. "Every child deserves access to a counselor, a school nurse, a librarian and other services in their schools."

Quoted

"I'm disappointed that teachers' union leaders, who profess concern for the city's school children, were silent on the critical changes in staffing flexibility and related work rules that are vital."
Mayor Michael Nutter

While schools are set to open on Sept. 9, teachers' contracts will expire on Saturday.

The School District of Philadelphia Spokesman Fernando A. Gallard said in a statement that in order to provide essential services to students, the school district needs resources.

"In this time of crisis, the District has asked all of its employees to contribute, including by salary reductions and making reasonable contributions to their health insurance costs," Gallard said. "We have asked for $103 million in recurring savings from the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, and their announcement today, while lacking in specifics, appears to fall well short of that amount."

Administration.
Syria options include multi-day strikes

The Obama administration is considering military options that include multi-day strikes on Syrian government targets in response to last week's chemical weapons attack, a senior U.S. official said on Wednesday, Aug. 28.

"The options are not limited to just one day," the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity, as the prospects for a U.S.-led air and missile assault on Syria looked all but certain.

Though the White House said President Barack Obama had yet to make a final decision on exactly how to respond, U.S. security officials have said that any air campaign would likely involve cruise missiles fired from U.S. warships in the Mediterranean.

But the United States does not intend to act unilaterally should it choose to go forward with military action, the senior official said. REUTERS

THE TWERK'S ON US

Here is what will shock me: If we ever make it through another awards show without something "shocking" happening. I put that word in quotes because even though the Twitterverse went agog, I didn't even raise an eyebrow over Miley Cyrus' tongue-wagging, booty-shaking antics at the Video Music Awards. Why? I've seen this act before. Michael Jackson did it. So did his sister. So did Madonna, Prince, Ozzy Osbourne and a whole rogue's gallery of entertainers. Doing something that seems outrageous is as much a part of show biz as footlights and grease paint.

In case you missed it (and you should drop to your knees to thank heaven right now if you did) the erstwhile Hannah Montana pranced around surrounded by giant dancing teddy bears (I have no idea why), croaking out a truly dreadful song, while wearing a pair of outfits that … well, let's just say if Victoria wore them she'd have no more secrets. Then she backed her assets up to Robin Thicke and started grinding like a fresh roast coffeemaker.

Miley Cyrus / GETTY IMAGES

Quoted

Every headline screamed about Miley's post-teen twerking as if no one there had contemplated (gasp!) that someone would come out in a skimpy costume and do something outrageous.

Critics roared: It was rude, raunchy, and R-rated!

It was also right on the money. The day after, you could scarcely find a word about anyone's brilliant songs or imaginative videos. Every headline screamed about Miley's post-teen twerking as if no one there had contemplated (gasp!) that someone would come out in a skimpy costume and do something outrageous. Cue the "Casablanca" clip. "I'm shocked, shocked to find that gambling is going on in here!"

In the end it came down to a choice. Before the awards, a lot of Americans probably had only one thought about Miley Cyrus: When is this train wreck going to end? And now, they're asking: What is she going to do next? For any performer, the second question is the one you want on everyone's mind. I'm not saying what she did was good nor that it showcased the best of America. I'm just saying, "You've come a long way, Hannah."

Lingo. 'Twerk' dancing and 'selfie' photos added to dictionary

"Twerk," a provocative dance move that has gone viral, and "selfie," a photograph taken of oneself using a phone, are two new words added to the Oxford English Dictionary on Wednesday.

The dictionary has included those words, in addition to "digital detox"and the social media meaning of the verb "unlike," in its latest quarterly update to reflect the increasing use of technology and social media.

Spokeswoman Katherine Connor Martin said the dictionary, which is one of the largest in the world and dates back 150 years, adds about 1,000 new entries to its online version every year. REUTERS

Nintendo releasing new handheld device

Japanese game maker Nintendo Co. will launch a new and inexpensive handheld gaming device and offer a $50 price cut for its 32GB Wii U console in North America and Europe this holiday season in a bid to reverse weak sales and woo gamers back to its offerings.

Dubbed the "2DS" and priced at $129.99, the new addition to Nintendo's 3DS range will go on sale on Oct. 12 and play 3DS and DS games with 2-D graphics, as its name suggests. REUTERS

US delays the deadline for finalizing Obamacare plans

Obama's Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act is expected to extend federally subsidized health coverage to an estimated 7 million uninsured Americans in 2014 through the marketplaces. / GETTY IMAGES

Quoted

"It makes me wonder if open enrollment can start on Oct. 1."

A former administration official who worked to implement Obama's healthcare reform.

Opposition. GOP and its allies have already fragmented Obamacare's original vision.

The Obama administration has delayed a step crucial to the launch of the new healthcare law, the signing of final agreements with insurance plans to be sold on federal health insurance exchanges starting Oct. 1.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services notified insurance companies on Tuesday that it would not sign final agreements with the plans between Sept. 5 and 9, as originally anticipated, but would wait until mid-September instead, according to insurance industry sources.

Nevertheless, Joanne Peters, a spokeswoman for HHS, said the department remains "on track to open" the marketplaces on time on Oct. 1.

The reason for the hold-up was unclear. Sources attributed it to technology problems involving the display of insurance products within the federal information technology system.

Peters said only that the government was responding to "feedback" from the companies, "providing additional flexibility and time to handle technical requests."

Coming at a time when state and federal officials are still working to overcome challenges to the information technology systems necessary to make the exchanges work, some experts say that even a small delay could jeopardize the start of the six-month open enrollment period. REUTERS

2 CULTURE

Indie spotlight

'Salinger'

(Sept. 6)

Hollywood screenwriter Shane Salerno ("Avatar") goes nonfiction with this documentary promising well-hidden new revelations about author J.D. Salinger. (Spoiler: There are new Salinger manuscripts coming.)

'Mother of George'

(Sept. 13)

This quiet drama immerses viewers in the cloistered world of African emigres in Crown Heights, Brooklyn — among them a new bride having difficulty conceiving.It also again proves that cinematographer Bradford Young ("Pariah," "Ain't Them Bodies Saints") is one of the greats.

'Don Jon'

(Sept. 27)

Joseph Gordon-Levitt makes his feature-length directorial debut with this portrait of an oily Jersey boy sex addict with bad hair (himself) who gets schooled by a hotcha Jersey girl (Scarlett Johansson). Tony Danza plays his dad!

Oscar season a-hoy!

Movies. Turn your brain back on. It's time for AMPAS bait — and also Robert De Niro with a bat and Metallica in 3-D IMAX.

Vin Diesel returns as his funky-eyed "Pitch Black" anti-hero in "Riddick." / UNIVERSAL PICTURES

'Riddick'

(Sept. 6)
What: Vin Diesel wasn't yet a star when 2000's lean "Pitch Black" came out and was stuck in a valley during the bloated 2004 spin-off "The Chronicles of Riddick." Now that he's back — or at least back in a franchise he once tried to abandon — all's good, presumably.
Why: Series director David Twohy has long been making genre films, and as of "The Perfect Getaway" has finally gotten good at them. That this runs less than two hours is a good sign.
Why not: Sorry, but "Pitch Black" is just so-so. This also features a character named Lord Siberius Vaako.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Animation of the Clearly Tired and Aging Vin Diesel.

'The Family'

(Sept. 13)
What: Eurotrash auteur Luc Besson ("The Fifth Element," "Taken") sucks up Robert De Niro, Michelle Pfeiffer and Tommy Lee Jones into his OTT orbit. The first two play parents in a family hiding from a mob they ratted out.
Why: Say what you will, Besson is probably the last person with significant money making genuinely insane blockbuster product.
Why not: Besson's movies are stupid. Sometimes this isn't a good thing.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Robert De Niro Performance of Fall 2013. (He's also in "Last Vegas," "American Hustle" and "Grudge Match.")

Robert De Niro (with bat) stands up to the mob he snitched on in "The Family." / JESSICA FORDE

'Insidious 2'

(Sept. 13)
What: The second horror film from "Saw"'s James Wan starring Patrick Wilson in two months — after "The Conjuring" — is a sequel to another Wan-Wilson horror from 2009.
Why: Wan — soon for "Fast & Furious 7," or however it will be titled — is getting better and better at old-school frights.
Why not: There are no such things as ghosts, and movies like this keep people, even smart people, thinking there are.
Will get an Oscar for: Best James Wan Film of the Quarter

James Hetfield stands in front of lasers in the concert movie/narrative "Metallia: Through the Never."
CAROLE SEGAL

'Prisoners'

(Sept. 20)
What: Hugh Jackman plays a small-town carpenter who kidnaps the creepy man (Paul Dano) he thinks kidnapped his 6-year-old daughter and her best friend.
Why: Hugh Jackman excels at playing tortured brooders.
Why not: With his Oscar nominated "Incendies," Canadian director Denis Villeneuve sucked much of the idiosyncrasy out of Wajdi Mouawad's play "Scorched." This seems to be a heavy, humorless and obvious portrait of obsession and false justice.
Will get an Oscar for: Least Joyful Film of 2013

'Metallica: Through the Never'

(Sept. 27)
What: Remember "The Song Remains the Same," the Led Zeppelin concert movie peppered with each member's ridiculous fantasies? This one marries a Metallica show to a narrative featuring a young man (Dane DeHaan, "The Place Beyond the Pines") going on a "surreal journey" that involves a deadly horseman — in 3-D IMAX!
Why: See "What."
Why not: See "What."
Will get an Oscar for: Best Lasers Behind 50-Something Metalheads

matt.prigge@metro.us

October. Cuaron goes interstellar and Knoxville gets old.

Sandra Bullock and George Clooney go to space in Alfonso Cuaron's "Gravity." / WARNER BROS. PICTURE

'Gravity'

(Oct. 4)
What: Alfonso Cuaron finally follows up 2006's "Children of Men" with this 3-D extravaganza, concerning the plight of two astronauts (George Clooney and Sandra Bullock) — and no one else.
Why: Cuaron and superstar cinematographer Emmanuel Lubezki are visual whizzes who will no doubt do loads with the technology and sensory aspects.
Why not: Sandra Bullock is very talented but not a great straight dramatic actress. Even her Oscar-winning "The Blind Side" role is largely a comic turn.
Will get an Oscar for: Actual Good Use of 3-D

'Captain Phillips'

(Oct. 11)
What: Earlier this year, adventurous audiences got the Danish "A Hijacking," concerning a ship overtaken by Somali pirates. Here's the big-budgeted American edition (albeit not a remake), starring Tom Hanks as real-life abductee Richard Phillips.
Why: Director Paul Greengrass ("The Bourne Ultimatum") is a master at capturing the now with whiplash handheld mega-cutting that's regularly misdiagnosed as being chaotic and unfollowable.
Why not: Greengrass also made "Green Zone," which he struggled in vain to make into more than a groaning history lesson told with 20/20 vision.
Will get an Oscar for: The Most Oscars

'12 Years a Slave'

(Oct. 18)
What: Avant-garde artist Steve McQueen (as opposed to the late superstar) goes big with this adaptation of the memoir of Solomon Northup (played by Chiwetel Ejiofor), a freed slave sold back into slavery.
Why: McQueen is a minimalist who thinks like a maximalist, and both "Hunger" and "Shame" — which, like "Slave," feature Michael Fassbender, and sometimes his penis — boast scores of isolated stunners.
Why not: Both those films faltered to varying degrees when actually addressing the major issues (the Troubles, sex addiction) they ostensibly tackled.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Non-Use of Michael Fassbender's Unclothed Member

'All is Lost'

(Oct. 18)
What: First comes the two-person "Gravity," then a movie starring only Robert Redford not speaking while he tries to survive while adrift at sea.
Why: Somewhat unexpectedly, this was a major find at this year's Cannes, where it unfortunately played out of competition.
Why not: "Margin Call," the last film by director J.C. Chandor, wasn't exactly a visual feast.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Actor, probably

'Jackass Presents: Bad Grandpa'

(Oct. 25)
What: Johnny Knoxville plays a bad grandpa in a loose plot that strings together "Jackass"-y gross-out stunts.
Why: Sue us: "Jackass" is hilarious.
Why not: It's not in 3-D.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Actor, probably

Indie spotlight

'Escape From Tomorrow'

(Oct 11)
Insanely, Disney did not suppress this Sundance craze, furtively shot with cameras snuck into Disney World and then pounded into a fantasy-horror about a man having a Disneyfied breakdown.

'Blue is the Warmest Color'

(Oct. 25)
This year's Palme d'Or winner is luckily being shipped out to American theaters with no cuts — a biggie considering it features a handful of incredibly graphic sex scenes between a teenager (Adele Exarchopoulos) and her 20-something girlfriend (Lea Seydoux). There's also a blistering, epic look at the life of their relationship, so get your mind out of the gutter.

November. Sci-fi by a homophobe and Leo thinks greed is good.

'Ender's Game'

(Nov. 1)
What: Orson Scott Card's classic 1985 novel about kids (Asa Butterfield and Hailee Steinfeld) trained for military battle against aliens finally gets a big-budget adaptation.
Why: The novel is one of sci-fi's brainiest.
Why not: In case you haven't heard, Card is a gigantic homophobe who called for revolution if gay marriage was ever implemented and now thinks people who hate him are being intolerant. But this isn't the first — or gazillionth — time an awful human being has produced good art.
Will get an Oscar for: Most Talented Dedicated Homophobe (sorry, Mel Gibson)

'The Wolf of Wall Street'

(Nov. 15)
What: Martin Scorsese returns to keyed-up, gleefully amoral "Goodfellas" mode, only this time with worse people: stockbrokers (played by Leonardo DiCaprio and Jonah Hill).
Why: If this isn't ridiculously entertaining, then there's no God.
Why not: There's probably no God anyway. But seriously, there's zero chance this isn't a blast.
Will get an Oscar for: Best Movie Ever

'The Hunger Games: Catching Fire'

(Nov. 22)
What: Some girl with a weird name that rhymes with "cat piss" (Jennifer Lawrence) continues her adventures outsmarting a dystopian society.
Why: The books are some of the easiest reads in memory. And by easiest, we mean they're poorly written without being distractingly so, a la the works of Dan Brown.
Why not: The "Battle Royale" films do this better, and give you R-rated carnage to boot. But do they feature "futuristic" names like Haymitch Abernathy and Caesar Flickerman?
Will get an Oscar for: Best Terrible Names

MATT PRIGGE

The world of "The Hunger Games: Catching Fire" is pretty weird.

'Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom'

(Nov. 29)
Of the season's many high-profile biopics (see also: "Diana" with Naomi Watts and "Grace of Monaco" with Nicole Kidman), the most noble seems to be this. Idris Elba plays the leader and revolutionary in his younger years.

In December

'The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug'

(Dec. 13)
The second attempt to finish a third of a 300-page book aimed at young kids in just under three hours comes at you, once again, in absolutely terrible high frame rate that makes everything that moves look ugly.

'Anchorman 2: The Legend Continues'

Will Ferrell exhumes his longest-lasting creation: self-loving news reader Ron Burgundy, lured into the 24-hour news trend in its infancy.

'Inside Llewyn Davis'

(Dec. 20)
The Coen brothers return —after 2010's "True Grit" — again to music and the 1960s, this time focusing on a miserable folk singer (Oscar Isaac) and his adventures making everyone he meets (particularly Carey Mulligan) angry with him.

Coming up 'Short'

Drama. A look at at-risk youths is perceptive but overly reassuring.

Brie Larson counsels Keith Stanfield in the drama "Short Term 12." / CINEDIGM

Former teen pop star Brie Larson is admirably dour as the hero of "Short Term 12," a sincere indie about a foster care facility for at-risk kids, told from the perspective of its twentysomething supervisors. Larson's Grace largely ignores her other, many young charges, glomming onto two: angry/sensitive Marcus (Keith Stanfield), the only African-American kid there; and Jayden (Kaitlyn Dever), whose sarcasm and standoffishness of course masks a horrific secret.

That Grace has something similar in her past is far too "screenwriting 101." Even more gripping than its plot is watching a loose and unsentimental portrait do gory battle with indie cliches. There are times when writer/director Destin Cretton's earnest but tough approach has a huge pay-off, as when Marcus performs a too-revelatory rap — a scene whose hoariness is upended by the intensity of how it was shot and the actors' performances. Other times it's too much the poster child for a certain dubious kind of cinema. It vies for realism — and of course all is tidily wrapped up by the too-cute end.

Don't pick up Selena Gomez

Studio B-movie.
Ethan Hawke growls through another trashy genre programmer.

Selena Gomez and Ethan Hawke are trapped in a car in "Getaway." / SIMON VERSANO

Review

'Getaway'

Director: Courtney Solomon

Stars: Ethan Hawke, Selena Gomez

Rating: PG-13

The lean, cheap genre film is largely a lost art form, one that periodically pops up in our blockbuster-obsessed culture. But they happen enough that one can be forgiven for somewhat resisting "Getaway," a trashy, cheap thriller released by a major studio (Warner Brothers) and starring both a serious thespian who's of late become a B-movie king (Ethan Hawke) and a teen pop sensation not above dirtying her image (Selena Gomez). It's mildly diverting, and it clearly hopes you won't point out its inconsistencies or the areas where it could have tried harder.

Hawke is given the pretty terrific name of Brent Magna, a former NASCAR star whose wife has been kidnapped. For ransom, Brent must steal a car in Bulgaria — where films are cheap to make — and do whatever a mysterious man, shown only in graphic mouth close-ups, commands. (The credits on the Internet spoil the famous, crazy actor's identity, but we'll be nice.) This baddie forces him to plow headlong into public spaces, evade a never-ending legion of police cars, drive down stairs fit for people, plus other bits of relatively minor, eventually monotonous daredevil acts.

The film's main challenge is overcoming Gomez, who plays the car's real owner, and who enters the picture looking to carjack her stolen ride. Gomez does become gradually half-tolerable. But the film, like its villain, proves wussier than it should be.

At first Brent is ordered to kill her. When he won't — partly because he's no murderer, partly because then we'd be stuck with just Ethan Hawke — the film offers no significant punishment. The bad guy just gives him more stuff to do, which is much like the stuff that came before and will come after.

Visually, director Courtney Solomon (of the "Dungeons & Dragons" movie, no less) struggles to keep things lively. Half the film comprises digital footage taken from various surveillance cameras, plus cameras nailed to the car as it whips around town. That, too, proves same-y, and soon it's not uncalled for to demand some actual invention. The same goes for the rest of the movie.

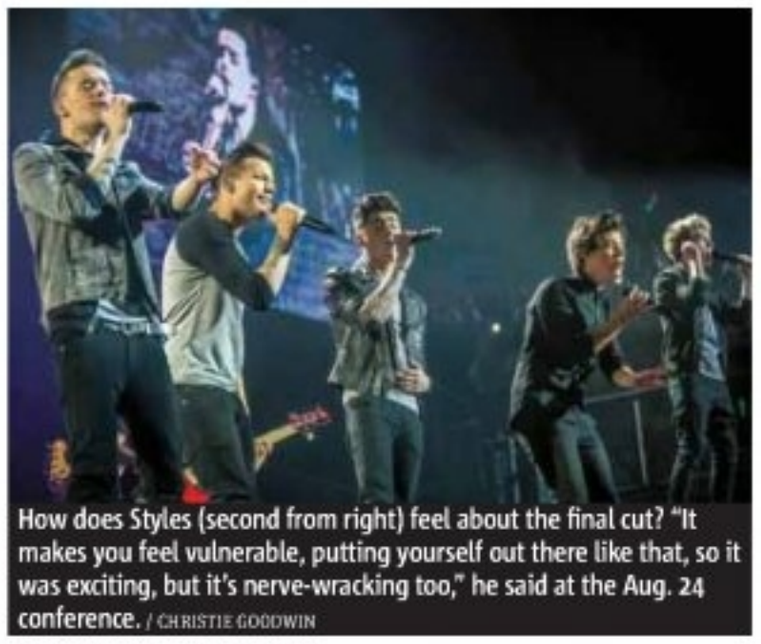
4 Things to expect from the new One Direction movie

Movie. They've taken over the music world — now, the boys turn to film.

In just three years, Harry Styles, Liam Payne, Niall Horan, Louis Tomlinson and Zayn Malik have catapulted to worldwide superstardom. "One Direction: This Is Us" gives fans inside access to the young men, touching upon everything from their goofy personalities to their fears about a life in showbiz. Based on a press conference we attended with the lads on Aug. 24, here's a primer on what to expect from the film:



How does Styles (second from right) feel about the final cut? "It makes you feel vulnerable, putting yourself out there like that, so it was exciting, but it's nerve-wracking too," he said at the Aug. 24 conference. / CHRISTIE GOODWIN

1 Their 'X Factor' auditions: Director Morgan Spurlock (yes, the filmmaker who brought you "Super Size Me") brings you back to 2010, when the guys first auditioned for Simon Cowell on "The X Factor." After each was cut as a solo act, Cowell decided to put them together and have them continue the competition as a group. They didn't take home the crown that season, but they did promise fans that wouldn't be the end of One Direction — and they were right.

2 Hard-core fans: Directioners, as they call themselves, are everywhere in the film, and that was intentional. "The film is definitely about getting across the story of the fans and the way that the fans definitely made this band," Payne says. Watch as herds of young girls around the world scream and cry for a glimpse at their idols.

3 Tons of concert footage: Whether or not you're into One Direction, you'll be treated to a concert of theirs when you take in the 3-D film. And let's face it: Even non-fans can hum along to "What Makes You Beautiful."

4 A look at their home lives: It's been a whirlwind of a ride for these five boys, but what's the effect been like on their families? You'll find out in the movie, thanks to interviews with the guys' parents. In one touching scene, Malik is on the phone with his mom as she tours the house her son has bought her.

He's got that 'One Thing'

Why Spurlock?

Though the director has presented provocative material in the past ("Super Size Me," "The Greatest Movie Ever Sold") this film is in a much lighter category. It's a straightforward look at the band, in a style similar to other concert films of recent years, like Katy Perry's and Justin Bieber's — both films that Spurlock was offered to direct. After passing on both for scheduling reasons, he told reporters on Aug. 24 that he couldn't miss a third opportunity to follow one of the biggest artists of the day around with his camera. And nothing was off-limits.

"We wanted to make a documentary, so the only way to make the best documentary is by giving the cameras access to all areas," Horan says.

PE: Believe the Made in America hype

Yeah, boy! Chuck D, Flava Flav and the rest of the Public Enemy crew are in town.

Public Enemy takes the Made in America stage Saturday. / PIERO F. GIUNT

Chuck D of the legendary hip-hop group Public Enemy has a suggestion for the upcoming Made in America festival.

"We've nicknamed it 'Made in Philadelphia,'" he says. "Because we're made in Philadelphia, we're not made in America. Start spreading that word. We're not made by Budweiser or Live Nation."

Chuck D — aka Carlton Ridenhour from Roosevelt, N.Y. — was hugely influenced by the '70s era Sound of Philadelphia growing up.

"Those are my mentors — Kenny Gamble, Leon Huff. They had a message in their music and their music was brilliant," he says. "To me, they're a part of my life, they're a part of the blood and culture I live and breathe in. The Sound of Philadelphia, it goes without saying, is the soundtrack to my teenage life."

Made where?

"We're made in Philadelphia, we're not made in America. Start spreading that word. We're not made by Budweiser or Live Nation." Chuck D

Public Enemy, which includes hype man Flavor Flav, plays Saturday at this year's Made in America Festival. The group, whose hits include "Don't Believe the Hype," "911 Is a Joke" and "Fight the Power," was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in April.

"It was very gratifying because we've always stood up for our genre to be accepted as real music," says Chuck D. "We decided early on to make a groundbreaking difference in our music, our lyrics and the application of what we thought about us as a people amongst people and human beings."

On the music side, the densely mixed sonic squall that underscored the Public Enemy hits — courtesy of the Hank Shocklee-led Bomb Squad — was a precursor to the EDM of today.

And their 1991 collaboration with Anthrax on "Bring the Noise" all but created the Nu-Metal genre of music. "We were one of 36 groups on the first ballot [to be inducted into the Hall]," Chuck D says. "It wasn't because we were competing against Deep Purple, Kiss or whoever, it's because we're at the top of our genre for being groundbreaking. There's a lot of naysayers who say we should be in a music hall of fame instead of a rock 'n' roll hall of fame. I say rock 'n' roll all comes from the blues and you have to pay attention to the black creativity, that's what it is."

Cue the fog and lasers

Miss Cracker. Didn't get tickets for Made in America? We've got an alternative for you.

Head to Johnny Brenda's Aug. 31 at 9 p.m. for Made in Philadelphia, starring Martha Graham Cracker, pictured. / JEFF FUSCO

Chuck D of Public Enemy was on to something when he told Metro that this weekend's fest should be named "Made in Philadelphia," not Made in America (see story on page 20). On Saturday night, Philly's favorite drag queen, Martha Graham Cracker, will compete for your attention with a music extravaganza at Johnny Brenda's called Made in Philadelphia.

"After the second Made in America Festival was announced and I still didn't get an invite, I figured, 'What the hell? We know lots of talented people, too,'" says Miss Cracker, aka Pig Iron Theatre co-founder Dito van Reigersberg. "So my pianist Victor Fiorillo and I created the Made in Philadelphia Festival, inviting some of the best Philly talent that will be on display at this year's Fringe Festival."

The lineup includes Geoff Sobelle dancing on ice skates, Johnny Showcase singing and, of course, the Martha Graham Cracker Cabaret, with Martha belting out tunes in that hysterical, irreverent, impressive way she does — only this time the set includes an entire album, which her Facebook fans have been voting on. As for which album it will be, you'll have to show up to find out: "All I can tell you is that it's from the '80s, it's epic and it requires lots of fog and lasers, both of which Johnny Brenda's has plenty of."

Their only song

Indie. "Rest" is already in heavy rotation on WXPN — despite the band's full album still pending release.

Nick Cislak, Jim "Hong Kong" Keifer, Maurizio Mazza, William Chamuris and Davis Jameson Howley of Commonwealth Choir enjoy kitchen photo shoots. / PROVIDED

The minute WXPN played a Commonwealth Choir song on its airwaves, songwriter Davis Jameson Howley received about eight texts within the same number of seconds: "Dude ur bands on XPN!!!"

"I know that isn't that big [of] a deal to a lot of musicians around here, but I'm gonna be honest, man, I teared up [a] little bit when that happened," says Howley.

The song in question, "Rest" — a perfect upbeat, strumtastic melody for the summer — is now in heavy rotation at XPN. That's a pretty solid score for any local act, but for Commonwealth Choir it feels downright bizarre.

You see, "Rest" is the only song they've ever released. The full EP, "Shirtless," is still pending release.

Howley's demeanor is not what you would expect from an indie frontman, local or otherwise. Just two years removed from his college graduation, he co-owns his own video production company and uses words like "entrepreneurial" without hesitation.

Influenced primarily by his mother's record collection — Jackson Browne, Elvis Costello and other '70s melody makers — he has a knack for creating memorable hooks. And the other four members couldn't be more precise in their execution, lending a subtle touch to this layered, intricate indie pop.

"My favorite thing about music is when it takes a weight off your shoulders. I always think of that episode of 'Seinfeld' when Elaine's boyfriend can't stop listening to 'Desperado.' So I want to create songs like that — ones you need to listen to again and again," says Howley. "But I think they also have to have a dark element to them to make that happen. They need to be haunted in some way."

Philly's Pagan Pride just wants to 'keep the Thor in Thursday'

Community. Head to Clark Park to find out what local "heathens" are all about.

Robert Lusch-Schreiwer and Annie Humphrey demonstrate a pagan handshake. / CHRIS JORDAN

Hey there, Philly-area pagans and heathens, your special day is coming up. It's Philadelphia Pagan Pride Day, set for Saturday at Clark Park in West Philly.

"I think this area is very eager to have something like this," says Robert L. Lusch-Schreiwer, 47, of Bristol and president of the newly formed Philadelphia Pagan Pride.

There will be more than 30 vendors and 10 pagan-related workshops throughout the day. Philadelphia Pagan Pride only has about 20 members, but the interest in a bigger event seems to be there.

"There's a lot of negative connotation because people may have never met a pagan and they seem like strange, far-off people," says Annie Humphrey, 26, of Forked River, N.J., and vice president of PPP. "We're trying to show that we're normal members of the community."

Here are a few primers, from PPP. A pagan and a heathen are basically the same thing — the only difference is that the word "pagan" has Latin roots, while "heathen" is Germanic. Paganism and heathenism are "essentially traditions and religions outside the, quote, big three [Christianity, Judaism and Islam]," Humphrey says. "Basically, we're looking at people reconstructing the pre-Christian religions of Europe."

Both Lusch-Schreiwer and Humphrey are followers of Germanic pre-Christian religions. In a way, it's not surprising as there are many remnants of paganism still in Western culture.

"Easter is a Germanic goddess, and there's all this stuff about Christmas, like the trees, lights and presents," Humphrey says. "We want to keep the Thor in Thursday."

That they do, but they also want to be good neighbors during Pagan Pride Day.

"Kids are welcome, families are welcome," Humphrey says. "Another thing we want to make clear is that this isn't just for pagans. We want everyone to come out, we want everyone to see what we're about and it's completely family-friendly. Bring grandma, bring the grandkids."

1 She's just being Miley

I'm just going to go ahead and say it: Miley Cyrus DGAF and I sort of love her for it. What? Don't look at me like that. The hipster dream sequence/American Apparel-ad on-acid spectacle that was the video for "We Can't Stop" was weird as hell, but it was also sort of amazing.

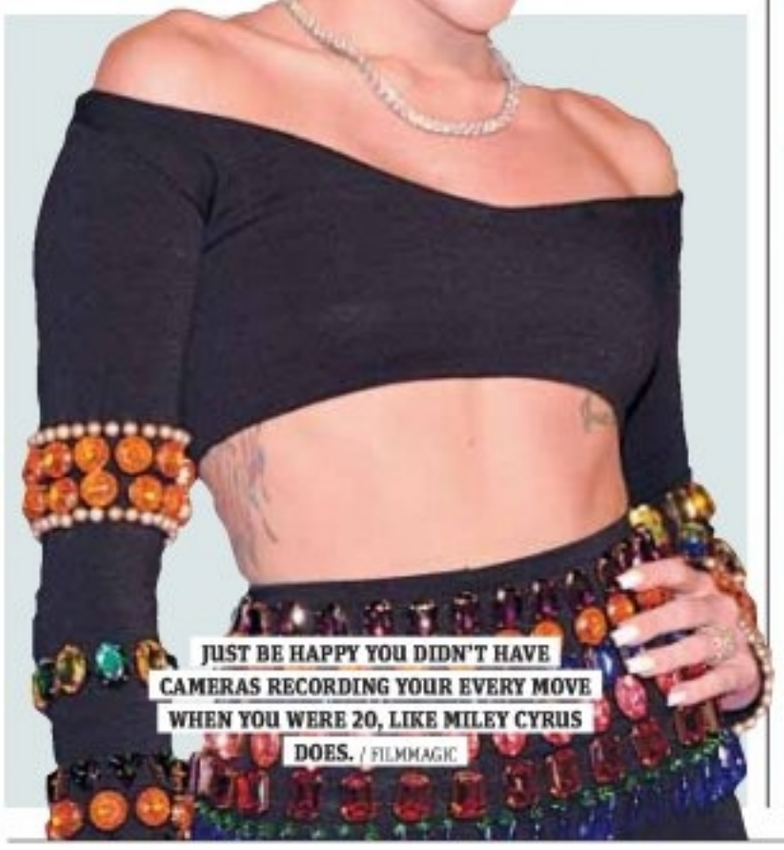
And here's the thing, people. Do you know how old Miley Cyrus is? She is 20 years old. Do you remember what you were doing at 20? Getting all kinds of messed up on all kinds of substances and making all kinds of mistakes. (Ahem, at least that's what I imagine YOU all were doing. I was studying for finals, in my pajamas, at all times.)

The difference between 20-year-old Miley Cyrus and 20-year-old you and me is that we didn't have cameras documenting our every move. (Unless you did, in which case — hey, cool, thanks for taking time out of your fancy celebrity life to read this column!)

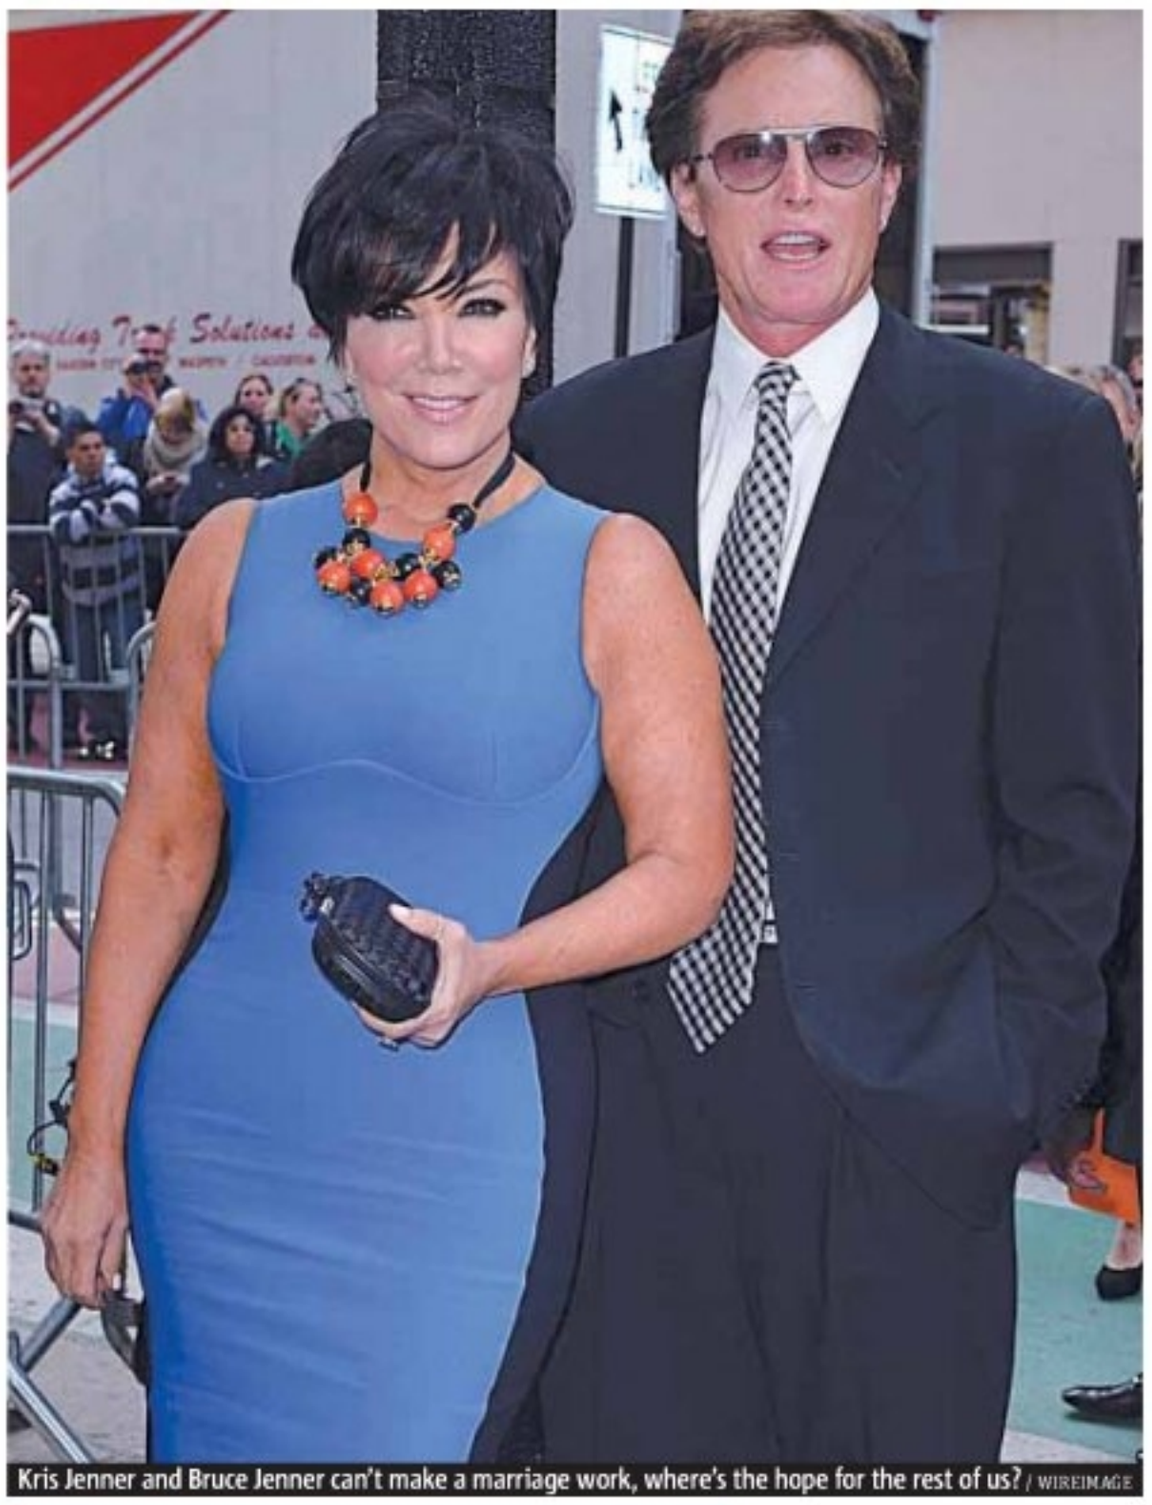
So, in my estimation, Miley Cyrus is pretty much hitting all the normal, 20-year-old idiot signposts — and awesomely so.

Case and point: in response to the hysterics the entire world has been having since her VMA performance (I'm having a little chuckle at my desk right now imagining bewildered middle-aged women across the country furiously Googling the word "twerk") Miley did not issue some half-assed apology via Twitter.

No, Miley instead began tweeting a bunch of trashy pics of herself — featuring her bony butt from its least bony angle — by way of issuing the world a big middle finger. Get on with your bad self, Miley.



JUST BE HAPPY YOU DIDN'T HAVE CAMERAS RECORDING YOUR EVERY MOVE WHEN YOU WERE 20, LIKE MILEY CYRUS DOES. / FILMMAGIC



Kris Jenner and Bruce Jenner can't make a marriage work, where's the hope for the rest of us? / WIREIMAGE

2 Jenners are kaput

Tough week for the Kardashians. Those rich, privileged, pampered people just can't catch a break.

On the heels of all the media fuss surrounding Lamar Odom's crack addiction (and Lamar Odom's brief disappearance into what was probably a crack den — and Khloe Kardashian's freaking out about the aforementioned crack-related things), we've now learned that Khloe isn't the only Kardashian whose world is Krashing down around her.

Apparently, the man trapped inside the leathery orange Bruce Jenner suit finally got enough oxygen through those surgically diminished nose holes to get his brain working again. And what the brain said was RUN BRUCE RUN.

Kris Jenner and Bruce Jenner are reportedly now separated, is what I'm saying.

Man, if those two crazy kids can't make it work, who can? (Probably not Kim and Kanye, I'm guessing.)

Dorothy Robinson will return Sept. 3.

3 How do you like dem apples, nerds?

Speaking of everyone making a big stink out of nothing on the Internetz, remember when it was announced that Ben Affleck was going to play Batman and everyone FREAKED THE EFF OUT?

I do. I almost had to cancel my Facebook account, because if I had to read one more rambling, misspelled diatribe about how Ben Affleck playing Batman was going to speed along global warming or give babies AIDS or whatever it is that people think will happen when this movie star plays a guy in tights, I was going to gouge my eyes out with a rusty spoon.

Because, why so mad, bro? I didn't even know there was going to be yet another Batman movie, much less do I give a good crap who is going to star in it.

Anyway, Ben's best buddy Matt Damon feels the same way I do and said as much in an interview with The Times of India.

"I know there are a lot of people grousing on the Internet. It's Batman!" he said. "[That's] certainly within his skill set. Batman just sits there with his cowl over his head and whispers in a kinda gruff voice at people."

I couldn't have said it better so ... I won't.

REMEMBER WHEN GEORGE CLOONEY PLAYED BATMAN? WELL, BEN AFFLECK HAS TO BE BETTER THAN THAT. GETTY IMAGES

4 Winging it

I've been wanting to write about the new McDonald's "Mighty Wings" ever since I first heard that this was happening and simultaneously threw up in my mouth a little bit, thinking about how disgusting on-the-bone wings from McDonald's will be.

But, alas, this revelation didn't really seem to qualify as celebrity gossip-worthy news so, instead, I just sort of Googled it a lot and read what other people were writing about it, which led me down a rabbit hole to the KFC Double Down and the Burger King Bacon Sundae (full disclosure: I once ate one of those, for work; it was gross) and before you knew it my entire afternoon was eaten up (ha!).

This morning, however, I got an email from some publicist recounting some story from InTouch that reported that Cameron Diaz had treated her crew to a thousand-dollar feast on the set of her new comedy, "The Other Woman." But it was from ... McDonald's!

THERE'S YOUR TIE-IN, I yelled to myself (silently, in my head, I have co-workers) and got to work.

Except, that's all I really had to say about the subject. Starting Sept. 9, for a limited time, McDonald's will be selling wings. And I'm pretty sure they're going to be gross. (I'll try them and report back.)

Big-spender Cameron Diaz treated her crew to McDonald's. What, there wasn't a White Castle around? WIREIMAGE

Iconic

Are there any handbags you wish you'd designed?

I'm sure every handbag designer would say the Chanel 2.55, with the mademoiselle lock. That was just genius for its time. Karl Lagerfeld created the two 'C's' post-eighties as apparently Coco Chanel would never have done that.

One to watch

This Lizzy Disney Lock bag ($520) is available at www.avenue32.com. / PROVIDED

Style. Designer Lizzy Disney's quiet but cool bags are on our radar.

Although billed as an emerging fashion talent, handbag designer Lizzy Disney isn't exactly new to the scene. A graduate of the prestigious Central Saint Martins, she styled shoots for Vogue before becoming chief designer at Jacques Fath, later swapping womenswear for accessories when she founded her own eponymous line. Her work stands apart from the deluge of hardware-heavy, handbags that dominate shop floors. And you can expect to see a lot more of her timeless, understated satchels now that things are heating up for the British-born designer.

What prompted the move to accessories?
I started making bags for myself and it grew from there. A friend would ask if I could make one for them and then their friends would approach me.

Did you ever buy into the "it" bag trend?
I have a Chanel bag, but I didn't buy it because it was an "it" bag. I'm old-fashioned — I'm not on Facebook, I don't do Twitter, so I don't do "it" bags.

How does your design approach respond to trends?
It doesn't. I created the envelope bag because I wanted something that would force me to take less things with me. I was sick of seeing bags decorated with lots of logos.

If you could work with anyone in the world of accessory design, who would it be?
I'd love to work in the Hermes atelier. I'm not a trained accessories designer, so it's still a big learning process. I love the craftsmanship of it, so would love to learn more.

What kind of woman do you have in mind when designing your bags?
My customers don't care about buying the latest must-have thing. I have quite a loyal clientele who all seem to work in creative industries. They range from 30 to 50 and they are all very clever.

What's next?
I'm taking it very, very slowly. I don't want to be a massive commercial brand. I just want to make a decent living and do what I love. I don't really want to sell out in any way.

Style. Local style experts tell us their fall must-haves

Sweater season is so close, we can almost smell it. (Or is that pumpkin spice?) We asked some local style experts what gets them most excited about fall.

Cozy sweaters and pumpkin lattes are must-haves for fall. / ISTOCKPHOTO

Ali McCloud, owner, Arcadia Boutique

"I'm most excited to pull out my cozy Pendleton boyfriend cardigan, and my Prairie Underground hoodies!"

Laurentius Purnama, owner, Laurentius Salon

"I am looking forward to women wearing a beautiful rich mocha color glossing over sunkissed summer hair."

Michelle Boyles, blogger, www.southphilly fashionista.com

"Bring on the boots! As a woman of shorter stature, I've found nothing elongates my legs more than a knee-high heeled boot, preferably in suede. From kitten heels to stilettos, it's rare to see my feet in anything but boots once the fall finally hits."

Brian Linton, founder, United By Blue

"Fall is ideal bike-riding season, and a bike outfit is not complete without a bike bag that is both fashionable and functional. I'm really excited to see bikes outfitted with waxed canvas and leather bags this fall."

How Morty and Lee got swept off their feet

Love. The adorable couple from that Swiffer ad share their wisdom with us.

Good news for romantics: Morty and Lee Kaufman are just as in love in real life as they are in the Swiffer ad that made them famous. We spoke to the Kaufmans, who live in Valley Stream, N.Y., about what's kept their bond of 44 years so strong.

For much more of our interview with the Kaufmans, visit www.metro.us. / SWIFFER

How did you two meet?
Lee: I was a widow and so was he, as we found out after we met. His little boy was in my summer reading class and Morty came for a required parent conference.
Morty: I walked in and I said to Lee, "Scotty can't read for beans, what are you gonna do about it?" She wasn't too intimidated. Later on I came in to have another conference with her, and I said, "I didn't come to speak about Scotty — would you care to go out with me?" And from then on it blossomed into a lovely romance.

What drew you together?
Morty: We both had been widowed in our early 40s, and there was a common bond between us [there].
Lee: We never really sat down and figured the points of what was good and what was bad — it really just went along, especially when our children began to get along.
Morty: I'll tell ya, I think an important factor was the fact that our previous marriages were both very satisfactory. We both came in with good concepts of marriage.

What are your secrets for wedded bliss after so many years?
Morty: You have to know that you love the person and you gotta know that person loves you. And you have to be considerate of each other.
Lee: I'm listening very carefully to all this.

How do you resolve arguments?
Morty: You compromise or you give in. No difference of opinion is that important as to interfere with your love for each other. Each one of us gives in more than we'd like. But we give in.
Lee: We were each of us the youngest in our family, and ... when you're the youngest, you learn to accommodate. And we found each other very accommodating. Really, that was a good contributing factor.
Morty: You gotta take care of each other.

How do you keep the sparks flying?
Morty: As you get older, you can just appreciate squeezing each other's hand, hugging each other. ... There's nothing quite as good as a loving hug and a good, warm kiss. That keeps you going.
Lee: Thank you, Morty.
Morty: You're welcome.

The shore

Pool party

Harrah's Pool After Dark is known for its steamy parties — the glass-enclosed, tree-filled space heats up, literally — and you can bet Labor Day weekend won't be any different. After all, this is the club where waitresses wear bikinis and DJ Pauly D of "Jersey Shore" fame is resident spinner.

Head to the Atlantic City hotspot Saturday for Brody Jenner's birthday party. Jenner, the stepbrother of the Kardashian clan, will be hanging out alongside DJ Eddie Edge.

A couple of warnings: The alcohol is decidedly not top-shelf, so stock up on Ibuprofen for the morning. And don't fall in the pool.

Throw a Labor Day bash

It's the last true weekend of summer, so go big. Sure, there are throngs of activities happening all over the city. But it's also one of your last chances to host the perfect barbecue party. We've got a list of places to help make your bash the tastiest shindig of the season. JULIA WEST

Meat

Chances are you could get just about everything you need for your party at the Italian Market. We recommend meat from Esposito's. If you really want to make friends, pick up some of the thick-cut bacon to add to your burgers and chicken sandwiches.

1001 S. 9th St.
215-222-2659

Cheese

Go ahead and put out a spread of nutty, buttery, pungent cheeses at your party. It's easy to go overboard at Wedge + Fig in Old City. The staff there know their fromage, and they'll probably be happy to help you make selections. What? You thought we were going to say Di Bruno Brothers?

160 N. 3rd St.
215-238-1716

Preserves and pickles

If you really want to impress at your party, offer up a full cheese plate with preserves and pickles for pairing. The jams at Green Aisle Grocery range from familiar, like blackberry, to exotic, like red onion star anise orange and kung pao apple. As for pickles, we suggest going for the garlic and dill cucumbers, as well as the Korean cucumbers.

Dessert

Cupcakes, pastries and cakes — you've got a ton of options at Night Kitchen Bakery. Whether you want everyone to stick their forks into a chocolate cake with raspberry buttercream icing or you prefer to create a grab bag of sweets — don't forget the lemon squares, please — Night Kitchen's got your back.

The master chef of 13th St.

Hot chef. Marcie Turney talks about the cronut craze, and opening Little Nonna's.

Assuming all goes well with nailing down the liquor license, we can expect to see Little Nonna's — the newest from 13th Street kingpins Marcie Turney and Valerie Safran — open for business Sept. 4. Between closing Lolita for renovation, running several restaurants, perfecting recipes, processing paperwork and training the staff, chef Turney found time to chat with us about the neighborhood, the pressure — and the cronuts.

See more at www.metro.us

It seems like everyone's waiting to see what Little Nonna's will be like. Is that added pressure or more of a challenge?
I love a good challenge, but your ego can't be too big. There's always a sense of confidence and a sense of reality, really. We don't take anything for granted. We've had successes and had things that needed to change. We try to learn from our mistakes.

Out of all the businesses that you and Valerie own on 13th Street, could you pick a favorite?
They're all different. I love the energy at Barbuzzo. I love that you open the door and it's just crazy going in — the line is getting their butts whooped but they're awesome. There's a cool sense of family. Then of course, Lolita, which is my oldest. I love 'em all from start to finish.

How do you feel about this whole cronut craze that's making its way into Philly?
Of course we said, "Why didn't we think of that?" We've been selling the frozen budino pops at Verde and there was a line outside the other day. It wasn't cronut crazy, but we had 300 pops and sold out in an hour and a half. But I got to give credit to Valerie for that one. She's the one who thought to freeze them.

You guys have pastry chef Sara May from Franklin Fountain making desserts at Little Nonna's. That's impressive. Who approached whom?
I put an ad up on Craigslist, so we joke that Craig brought us together. My ad was pretty straightforward. I want desserts that people look at and want to eat immediately. Things that look great and taste even better. As soon as we went to Franklin Fountain, we saw photos of desserts she made and I said, "That's my girl."

Breaking the curse

Brunch. A month after opening, this beloved West Philly corner spot is going strong.

Ross Scofield, co-owner of West Philly's new Rx the Farmacy, just turned the unlucky 45th and Spruce spot into a blooming neighborhood favorite once again.

Though some of the curse may still be sticking around: The restaurant had a break-in Monday night. But damage was minor and only required a quick closure.

Let's back up and take a moment to remember when this was simply Rx, a cozy BYOB that neighbors would flock to for brunch. Next, briefly, came the ill-fated Rimedio. And then the small space sat vacant, waiting for that special someone. "After graduating, my partner and I moved to Connecticut to help a good friend open his restaurant," says Scofield. "When we returned to Philadelphia we noticed the space that used to be Rx was now vacant. With the For Lease sign hanging in the window, I knew we had to pick it up."

The new incarnation of Rx opened at the beginning of the month, and so far each weekend has busier than the last. The fact that Rx remains in the name as a nod to its predecessors has likely helped.

"I had to bring Rx back because of what it was when it was there," says Scofield. "It's small, it's personal, it's me. More importantly, it's West Philly — a unique community."

JULIA WEST

Ross Scofield graduated from the Restaurant School of Walnut Hill. / RX THE FARMACY

Prescription

What's in a name?

The clever name doesn't stop at the inclusion of Rx, which neighbors will surely recognize. Farmacy refers both to the building's history as a drug store and also to the local farm food that's served. On the menu you'll find Lancaster pork chops, hand-cut pasta and eggs for your benny at brunch.

"Big Bugs" is an understatement. We're talking about a 150-pound ladybug, 25-foot ants and a 4-foot spider spinning a 15-foot web. Sculptor David Rogers created these creatures mostly from natural materials, like dead trees and plants, to remind us of the vital role insects play in the environment. Horoscope

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Put time and effort into a major involvement, and you'll encounter a crackerjack financial opportunity. Trust what you know.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Excess will lead to trouble. Assess your situation and you will realize you can make do with less. Aggressive behavior will damage a close relationship.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Seek adventure. The people and places you encounter will contribute major improvements to your home and work lives.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Avoid a scuffle with someone who is in a position of authority. It would be best for you to make personal changes at home.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20. Make your point heard and your suggestions will be considered. Keep the competition at a distance and your superiors well-informed.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb 18. Share your intentions with someone you trust. Now could be the time to suggest some changes to your loved ones.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Question the relevant motives before you jump into a joint endeavor. You and the other party probably do not have the same purpose in mind.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. You'll be drawn to someone for what you see as their unique qualities. Don't fall for big talk when you have all the facts.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Plan a mini vacation or visit someone who brings you joy. Spending time relaxing will make personal improvements.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Talk less and focus on making a difference. Don't feel the need to pay for others or to try to buy love.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. You've got everything you need to reach your personal goals. Set your sights high. You'll learn what you need to make the right choices.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. A change will do you good. It could involve travel or simply trying a new activity or mingling with a new group. You'll make some connections.

Sharpton's not so sharp

The gathering at the Lincoln Memorial commemorating the 1963 Martin Luther King's "I Have a Dream" speech was a ridiculous spectacle indeed. Led by Al "The Charlatan" Sharpton, this bunch had not much to offer but a grab bag of stale leftist desires and tiresome complaints.

I get the impression that we are all supposed to bow our heads in obeisance to whatever idiotic notion comes out of the mouths of these celebrants just because they invoke the name of King. No one with a brain should buy what Sharpton and company is selling.

Respect the porn stars

Re: 'Pippi porn star' (Metro, Aug. 28) What would a good morning be without a strong shot of espresso and Word columnist Alexandra Cavallo's judgmental moralizing? She writes, "Let's be honest, most people who get ejaculated upon for a living are pretty much dead on the inside." As opposed to those who do so for free? Cavallo owes her job to the (s)exploits of celebs, so a bit less slut-shaming and a bit more compassion and appreciation are in order.

FANTASY FOOTBALL GUIDE

FANTASY

ADAM LEVITAN, LIVING THE FANTASY

METRO'S FANTASY GURU BREAKS IT ALL DOWN

NFL quarterbacks get the money, women and power. But in this golden age of passing, they don't get the value in fantasy leagues.

When you sit down to draft this weekend, the easy play will be to take familiar names like Aaron Rodgers, Drew Brees and Peyton Manning in the first couple rounds. Don't do it.

The primary reason quarterbacks have become devalued in fantasy leagues is simply because there are so many good ones. Last year, 11 threw for 4,000 yards or more. If we're in a 12-team league that starts one quarterback, we're going to get a quality asset. Don't believe me? Try to poke holes in this 12-man list: Rodgers, Brees, Manning, Cam Newton, Tom Brady, Matthew Stafford, Robert Griffin III, Colin Kaepernick, Andrew Luck, Russell Wilson, Matt Ryan and Tony Romo.

The reason we can live with any of these 12 is because quarterbacks are generally the most durable of all the positions. We desperately need quality depth at running back and wide receiver because we're almost certainly going to incur injuries early and often at both of those spots.

We also can live with any of the 12 quarterbacks because of relative value in starting lineups. All this means is that the difference between the No. 1 quarterback and the No. 12 guy will be miniscule compared to the gap between the No. 1 wideout and the No. 36 wideout.

Lastly, there are tons of sleeper quarterbacks we can put on our bench.

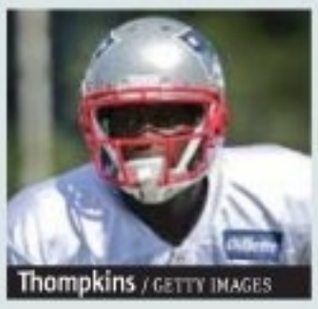
Michael Vick is a renewed threat to run for 800 yards, Jay Cutler is poised for the best year of his Chicago career and Ben Roethlisberger remains a difference maker.

By being the last owner to take a quarterback, we set ourselves up to be absolutely stacked at the other positions, and don't lose much value by doing so. It's a winning strategy to take with you to the war room.

Three steals

Keep these names in mind:

- Jordan Cameron, TE, Browns: What do Kellen Winslow, Antonio Gates and Greg Olsen all have in common? They all had career years under new Browns head coach Rob Chudzinski.
- Michael Floyd, WR, Cardinals: Arizona's passing game features a one-two punch of upgrades. They added Carson Palmer and a new vertical pass game.
- Kenbrell Thompkins, WR, Patriots: Thompkins is an undrafted rookie who went out and earned the starting "X" receiver job by outplaying the competition.



Thompkins / GETTY IMAGES

First-round mock draft (non-PPR)

No. 1 — Adrian Peterson
He's simply a once-in-a-generation talent.

No. 2 — Doug Martin
His offensive line is even better this year.

No. 3 — Arian Foster
Even a reduced workload still means 300 touches.

No. 4 — Trent Richardson
He's a gifted runner and the offensive centerpiece.

No. 5 — LeSean McCoy
Chip Kelly will run more than you think.

No. 6 — C.J. Spiller
Stacked boxes won't phase him.

No. 7 — Jamaal Charles
Look for 70 catches on Alex Smith checkdowns.

No. 8 — Marshawn Lynch
He's a battering ram for a team often in the lead.

No. 9 — Ray Rice
Anquan Boldin is gone and Dennis Pitta is out.

No. 10 — Alfred Morris
He's not a fluke. He breaks tackles at an elite level.

No. 11 — Calvin Johnson
He was tackled six times at the 1-yard line last year.

No. 12 — Matt Forte
His role's increasing under coach Marc Trestman.

Three busts

Avoid these players:

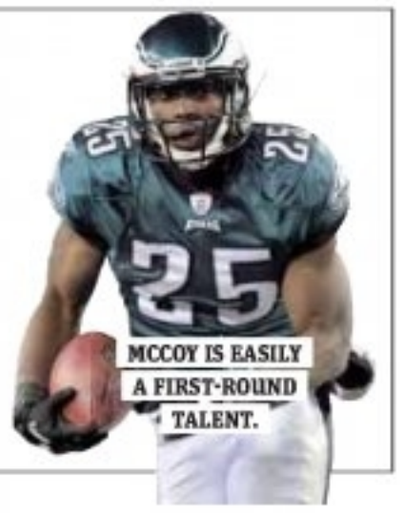
- Ronnie Hillman, RB, Broncos: Hillman has attracted a following as the Broncos' starting back the entire offseason. Problem is, he fumbles and Montee Ball is breathing down his neck.
- Tavon Austin, WR, Rams: Don't get fooled into thinking Austin will be a mini Percy Harvin. He's electric in the open field, but he's not nearly as physical.
- Philip Rivers, QB, Chargers: Even if Rivers' arm strength wasn't rapidly declining, he'd be in a bad spot with an awful line and a new coach.

Rivers / GETTY IMAGES

Local picks

There's no shame in being a fan of your local team. Just don't carry it into your draft without the proper analysis. That back-up tight end you got an autograph from can't cloud your judgment. We take a look at some Eagles you'll actually want to target.

- LeSean McCoy, RB He has become a true three-down back playing with one of the game's most talented offensive lines. And his versatility really adds another plus to his game. Bryce Brown can't steal carries if he can't stop fumbling.
- DeSean Jackson, WR He is beginning to show a more diverse route tree and the makings of a true No. 1 receiver for Philadelphia. Jeremy Maclin's season-ending injury doesn't help the Eagles, but it can help your fantasy team.
- Michael Vick, QB Oregon quarterbacks averaged 568 rushing yards and 7.5 rushing touchdowns over the last six seasons with Chip Kelly as the man in charge of the offense. Vick still has enough juice in his legs.



MCCOY IS EASILY A FIRST-ROUND TALENT.

Top 3

Rules to draft by

1 Don't drink — Think alcohol is fun? Then you probably think losing fantasy leagues is fun, too! The draft is a war of wits. Don't let yourself get clouded until it's over.

2 Adjust your rankings in PPR — Downgrade QBs heavily, downgrade RBs that don't catch (Marshawn Lynch, Alfred Morris) and bump up possession WRs (Randall Cobb, Danny Amendola).

3 Don't take a defense or kicker before Round 12 — They are too unpredictable and dependent on matchups. We're better off stockpiling depth at real positions.

Phillies not rushing Brown back too soon

MLB. The Phillies organization is being cautious with the All-Star as he deals with a sore Achilles tendon.

The Phillies aren't rushing Domonic Brown back — no matter what the outfielder says.

Brown missed his fourth straight game Aug. 28 as he deals with soreness in his right Achilles. He's been working out with the club, but he's listed as day-to-day. While the injury didn't appear that serious when it happened, the Phillies are being extra cautious with the future face of the franchise.

"He's anxious," skipper Ryne Sandberg told reporters. "That's why he's coming out here to test it and see where he's at. I know that he's anxious."

Brown is batting .275 this season, with 27 home runs and 80 RBIs. He's not expected to land on the disabled list.

The Phillies have been rolling out a lineup with Darrin Ruf, John Mayberry Jr. and Roger Bernadina in the outfield.

Eagles defense looks for solid showing in the preseason finale

NFL. Billy Davis' unit has struggled in the preseason, but they'll look to rally against the New York Jets.

Eagles defense has one last chance to impress. / GETTY IMAGES

The biggest question on every Eagles fan's mind: Will the defense be better than last season? After watching the unit struggle through three preseason games, it's a valid query.

The Eagles are transitioning to a hybrid form of a 3-4 defense, so growing pains were expected. While it's unfair to read too much into preseason stats, they haven't been pretty. The team is ranked 27th in the NFL in yards allowed (355.3), while sitting in the middle of the pack in other vital categories, like points allowed and third-down percentage.

The defense has also been dealing with a rash of injuries, particularly in the secondary. The Eagles will get one last look at the unit in the preseason finale Thursday, Aug. 29 (7 p.m., 6abc). It's put-up or shut-up time for a lot of these players.

"You have to get a rhythm of the players and you truly want to evaluate them," defensive coordinator Billy Davis said. "So the preseason gets tricky with trying to give a guy rhythm, evaluate them, get a guy against their best. So it's a challenge, and every game is a moving target."

Jets

Simms to start preseason finale againt Philadelphia

The Jets will start Matt Simms at quarterback Thursday in the preseason finale against the Eagles.

Rookie Geno Smith will not play. Mark Sanchez is injured. The Jets signed Graham Harrell to take the place of Greg McElroy (knee injury). Coach Rex Ryan hasn't declared a starter for the season opener. METRO

Bears

Marshall out as he deals with personal matters

Bears receiver Brandon Marshall has been excused for four days due to personal reasons.

Marshall had arthroscopic surgery on his hip in the offseason, but the absence reportedly isn't related to the injury. Bears coach Marc Trestman expects the wideout to return to the team Sunday. METRO

Lions

Former Top-5 pick Curry announces retirement

Aaron Curry, the No. 4 overall pick in the 2009 NFL Draft, announced his retirement via Twitter. Curry was recently cut by the Giants.

The linebacker never lived up to the hype and bounced around the NFL. Matthew Stafford was the top pick in 2009, but the Lions considered taking Curry No. 1 overall. METRO

Report: RG3 will play in Skins opener

NFL. The Redskins are expected to have the star quarterback back in time for Monday Night Football.

Griffin / GETTY IMAGES

The dream matchup appears to be set.

Redskins quarterback Robert Griffin III will start the season opener against the Eagles, according to ESPN. Griffin has been practicing with the team, but his status had been up in the air. He's reportedly had no setbacks with his surgically-repaired knee.

"I would say I'm 100 percent, but you can't put a number on it," Griffin told ESPN980 Radio in Washington earlier this week. "No one ever knows when they are 100 percent or what percentage they're playing at. The biggest thing is, I'm not below 100 percent."

The Eagles play in Washington on Monday, Sept. 9, to open the season in Chip Kelly's national debut as head coach. Mike Vick, of course, is the starting quarterback for the Eagles.

An official announcement on Griffin is expected Thursday, according to Redskins coach Mike Shanahan. Griffin is meeting with Dr. James Andrews Thursday and will travel with the team for the preseason finale in Tampa.
